August 12, 2009

Carolina Pro Musica begins its 32nd season of concerts in September. Again this year our opening concert is part of the Arts and Science Council's "Cultural Free for All" – an event for the month of September in Charlotte. Students will be admitted free to this first concert. We are pleased to be a part of this Arts & Science Council project and also are happy to be a part of the ASC's Cultural Donor Card/Connect with Culture where persons can buy one ticket to an event and get a second one for free.

Purchasing an advertisement in our season of programs is one way you can support our efforts and have an opportunity to reach a slightly different audience. Concerts will be at Covenant Presbyterian Church chapel (a new venue for us), St. Martin's Episcopal in the Elizabeth neighborhood and at St. Mary's Chapel for our two Christmas performances. There is always free parking at our events.

This past year we performed with the Charlotte Civic Orchestra, played concerts in Davidson, Asheville, Belmont, Boston and produced a new compact disk. Creative Loafing's Perry Tannenbaum calls us - "a fresh bouquet of 18th century delights that no other symphonic or chamber group in town can deliver."

Thank you for your support. Come to our concerts. We will be happy to share tickets with you.

Sincerely,
